‘Instead of being angry with ‘Her Master,’ who believed there was nothing wrong with him having both women at the same time, she started to become increasingly angry with her new girlfriend. At first, her idea was just to ‘beat her up a bit.’

‘She pulled out a meat cleaver and began hacking pieces of the girl’s body. It was pre-planned, pre-meditated, and utterly unrestrained.’

‘She’d stabbed him more than twenty times, then sat and watched him die. She knew her neighbour was listening, she could have called out to her for help, but she didn’t, she didn’t do anything at all. She’d stabbed him twenty five times.’

‘In her car they found an array of intriguing items which seemed to very clearly indicate what her intentions had been that day. They found a hand written list of items, and many of those items were now inside her car. They included latex gloves, trash bags, a gun, a knife, tape and rubber tubing.’

‘Via social media, a woman creates a range of completely fictitious characters; alter egos who don’t exist in real life but who played a devastating part in the killing.’

‘She told him her husband was a high level Mafia crime boss; that he would kill her if she tried to leave him. That they had to come up with a way of getting rid of him.’

‘He was just one of their ‘clean up’ victims and he needed to die, and as he lay dying she took photographs to keep of their helpless victim with his entrails displayed for them to gaze at when they got home. It was better than sex she said.’

‘She’d already killer her lover, his friend and a lodger, and was on the run from the police. She was seeking more victims to kill.’

‘Their relationship was founded on lust and passion and that made them a fiery couple once jealousy was thrown into the mix.’
