Juliette's Dream (Ashes of the Realm series Book 1) Saxon Andrew

From the Number One Best Selling Author Saxon Andrew comes the first book in his new Science Fiction Series, Juliette's Dream, Ashes of the Realm Book One. This new series covers the period after the destruction of the Star's Realm.

The Five Provinces have been left behind by the Stars Realm and civil war has broken out. Hundreds of thousands of planets have been decimated, and millions of others blasted back into primitive technology. Trillions have died, and the killing is far from over.

After two thousand years the survivors are barely eking out an existence on what remains of the once powerful Realm. Out of the ashes, a young Human will arise that will fight for the survival of his community and the giant Zord that fly the skies of the once powerful Provincial Capital, El Prado. The radioactive wastelands and millions of giant carnivores are the least of the community's problems. Raiders from the stars are what must be faced by the brave archers to survive. Thousands have been killed and the raiders are coming again.

Excerpt from Juliette's Dream:

The black ships had moved two hours in-system when they suddenly heard a voice come over their intercom, "You are entering space of the Bristone Empire. You will reverse course and leave immediately." Niles looked at his sensor board and didn't see anything. He looked at his Sensor Officer and shook his head. "Continue on our present course."

"This is your last warning. Turn around immediately and leave the system."

Niles looked at his sensor officer, "Sir, my sensors don't have anything on them. Whoever is broadcasting those messages is not visible."

Niles felt nervous, but knew a firing squad awaited him if he turned around, "Continue on present course." The four lead ships of his squadron were suddenly hit by a bright red beam and disintegrated into balls of expanding gas.

"Reverse course! Reverse course!"

The surviving sixteen ships turned toward the jump limit and accelerated at full speed. The four ships that were killed had their screens at full power and were still destroyed instantly. Niles looked back at the still expanding clouds and still could not see anything on his sensors.

Daulun was not going to be happy about this. Niles hoped his ships wouldn't be sent back to this system, but he knew Daulun would not let this go unpunished.
